

Linda Wallace

March 18, 1948 - March 19, 2025

Linda M. Wallace passed away surrounded by family and friends one day after her 77th birthday, on March 19th, 2025.

Linda was known for her strong will, soft heart and sarcastic wit, who had over 40 years of service in the airline industry; starting at PWA, Canadian Airlines, Air Canada and ending her career with Canadian North. She loved connecting with people over a cigarette, updating her VW bug, gardening, traveling, and experiencing new cultures. She was also a talented potter, sculptor and watercolour painter.

She is survived by her two daughters, Morgan Wallace (Simo Jait) and Shelby Wallace; her sister Carol (Dan) Villeneuve and niece Karley Villeneuve (Shane Korpisto) and nephew Greg (Anita) Villeneuve and their children Kaysen & Tillya.

Thank you to the staff and residents that supported Linda during her stays at Rutherford Heights and CapitalCare Dickinsfield. In lieu of flowers, those wishing to honor Linda's memory may contribute to MS Canada in her name at donorservice@mscanada.ca. Linda requested that no funeral service to be held.

“ I worked for many years with Linda, I loved her straight forward wit. She was kind and saw things as they were. RIP Linda you will always be in my airline memories.

“ I got to work with Aunt Linda at the airport back in the day. Let me tell you , few things are more inspiring than seeing your frail looking aunt absolutely destroy a bully at the check in counter. She had this look that could have withered Genghis Khan. Her tone was patient, her words were professional and yet she managed to, in no uncertain terms, tell that jerk how things were going to go and where he could shove it if he didn't follow her instructions. He was very compliant moving forward... Even strangers knew Linda wasn't someone to toy with. As sharp as her wit and tongue were, I was always lucky to also benefit from the fact she was a huge softy; she'll be missed.
